Summary

Hello! I'm Dharshini, a passionate pre-final year student pursuing a degree in Artificial Intelligence and Data Science at Bannari Amman Institute of Technology. I'm enthusiastic about the limitless possibilities that technology offers, and my journey has already taken me through some exciting avenues.

I'm proficient in programming languages like C, C++. Beyond that, I've honed my skills in web development, boasting proficiency in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and React.js. My passion lies in creating responsive and visually appealing websites that leave a lasting impression.

I'm currently diving deep into Node.js with Express, and I'm finding it incredibly exciting. Exploring this technology allows me to discover its efficiency and simplicity in building robust applications. I'm particularly thrilled by the potential it offers for creating scalable web solutions. As I delve deeper, I'm uncovering the intricacies of web development, from building RESTful APIs to handling middleware and routing. This learning journey is truly captivating, and I'm eager to master the art of Node.js development.

I'm always eager to connect with like-minded individuals, whether it's for collaboration, sharing knowledge, or exploring new opportunities. Let's connect and discuss the possibilities of working together or simply share insights on the fascinating world of technology.
